

THE ERC SYNERGY GRANT 4-OCEANS "HUMAN HISTORY OF MARINE LIFE"
PRESENTS:

MARCH 17, 2025

RIPPLE EFFECT

AN ENVIRONMENTAL HUMANITIES SYMPOSIUM

ROOM B201, NOVA FCSH - AVENIDA DE BERNA, LISBOA

FREE ENTRY UPON REGISTRATION BY EMAIL: 4OCEANS@FCSH.UNL.PT

Trinity College Dublin
Colégio na Trindade, Baile Ádhú Clárú
The University of Dublin

NTNU
UNIVERSITY MUSEUM

UNESCO Chair
The Dooku's Cultural Heritage
NOVA University Lisbon
Portugal

This project has received funding from the European Research Council (ERC) under the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme (grant agreement No. [951649])

Ripple Effect

An Environmental Humanities Symposium

March 17, 2025

10h00 – 17h00

Room B201, NOVA FCSH - Avenida de Berna, Lisbon

A meeting of researchers from different European initiatives and projects (including the highly competitive ERC) for research excellence in the Environmental and Blue Humanities. Researchers will meet and talk about water and land, the human and the non-human, that that is situated in between the transformative and what we must uphold, and the resulting ripples.

10h

Welcoming words – Cristina Brito

Opening the Day and Chairing the Sessions – Nina Vieira

10h20

Encounters I: Water + Land

Tatiana Theodoropoulou – Studying across the natural and social dimensions (MERMAID)

Lino Camprubi – Discovering the Deep Mediterranean (DEEPMED)

Antonio Ortega – Perspectives on Environmental Injustices from the relationship between Human Beings, Plants, Seas, Oceans and Territories (LABHUMAMB)

Breakout group discussion

14h00

Encounters II: Making Ripples

Verónica Policarpo – Understanding recovery with more-than-human communities (ABIDE)

Patrícia Vieira – Ecocultural entanglements (ECO)

Cristina Brito - Challenges and Solutions for the Blue Humanities in Portugal (4-OCEANS)

All-together group conversation

16h30

Farewell with coffee and tea